The occupation was admitted and the case continued for argument.JACOB KROEBEL, who lives at Fifth and Ridge streets northwest, was fixing an awning in front of his store yesterday afternoon, when he slipped from the step-ladder, and fell, striking his back on the stone doorstep and causing injuries which Dr. Bond, who was summoned, says may result very seriously.THE FIFTH excursion of the National Rifles occurs to-morrow night. The steamer Corcoran has been chartered, and the excursionists will be taken to Marshall Hall, where several hours will be devoted to dancing and a general good time. The excursions of the Rifles are always very select and well managed.CAPTAIN BARKER, who resigned his position as captain of the Arrowsmith, has been succeeded by Captain Thomas P. Ross, who first brought the boat to this city from New York. Mr. John Menshau, supervising inspector of the third steamboat district, has examined her boilers and engine, and pronounced them perfectly intact and in excellent condition.WE are glad to know that the painful accident which occurred to Charles Laird, the champion rifleman of the District, is not as serious as it was thought. We are under the impression that he will recover after allowing his friends to test their rifles, and he can employ his time while on leave in picking the powder and fragments of the shell out of his face.M. W. BEVERIDGE & Co. yesterday sent to the White House a present of glassware for Mrs. Garfield. It was manufactured by an American firm, who sent it through Beveridge & Co., with the request that their name be not mentioned in the connection. Mr. Thad. Dunn, who brought the glassware to the house, and who has long been in the employ of Beveridge & Co., says that it is the finest lot he has ever handled.

Houghton will make general repairs to the brick house 804 K street, to cost $500.—The reports of the school trustees of the repairs necessary to the school buildings in each division having been submitted, work was commenced this morning by order of the Commissioners.—David A. Windsor was granted a permit to-day for building four fine three-story brick dwellings, with pressed-brick fronts, tin roof, and of large dimensions, on Q street, between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets, to cost $10,000.—The committee of the school trustees and Commissioner Dent, who went to the Henry school building yesterday afternoon to inspect the building did not accept it as, for some reason, it was impossible to try the steam-heating apparatus. The same party, accompanied by the Inspector of Buildings, will visit the school again at 4 p. m. to-day when the heating apparatus will be in operation and the building will be accepted if everything works satisfactorily.

INDIAN CONFERENCE.

Importance of the One to be Held Here in August.

It has been learned that the forthcoming conference between representatives of the various Indian tribes and the Secretary of the Interior, to be held in this city August 5 next, promises to be even more important than the more matter of enlarging and consolidating reservations. The main question to be discussed will be numerous allegations that foreign authorities have been engaged in furnishing various tribes of Western Indians with firearms and ammunition. If the charges can be established, and there is a strong probability that they will be, the Government will proceed to take steps to make the offenders agree to indemnify the Indians for any wrong they may have sustained.

It seems that about a year and a half ago, Dr. J. S. Cannon, a chief of the United States, and interpreter, who controls the movements of all other guides and interpreters in the western country, received information that arms were being furnished the Indians by parties in Canada, the Catholics in New Mexico and Utah Mormons. Dr. Cannon arranged for collecting the facts and collected a vast amount of evidence bearing upon the matter, regularly notifying the Interior Department of the progress of his investigations.

About two months ago he was summoned to Washington, and on arriving here filed the papers with Secretary Kirkwood, and after consultation it was agreed to send for leading Indians to come here and give testimony on the subject. Representatives of nine tribes, representing nearly 90,000 Indians, have been summoned to attend the big council next month, and in addition 1,500 Indian children from the Carlisle, Pennsylvania, school will attend. Some of the most prominent chiefs expected to attend are Spotted Tail, Red Cloud and No Flesh, of the Sioux; Iron Shirt and Stone Bull, of the Southern Cheyennes; Little Priest, of the Arapahoes; Little Bear, of the Kiowas; the Germanine Sisters, and, but not least, the notorious Sitting Bull. From the latter it is expected that some important information will be elicited in connection with his long stay on the Canadian border.

Camp Meetings.
The annual encampment of the Methodist Protestants at Jackson Grove will begin to-morrow. The camp is midway between Washington and Baltimore on the Baltimore & Potomac Railroad. The grove, situated about a mile and a half from the city, contains a large number of fine shade trees and numerous springs of good water. The encampment is located on a sandy knoll, which absorbs and sheds the rain, thus keeping the ground in good condition. A large increase in the number of tents is expected this year, as many improvements have been made during the past year. The camp is situated on the new road, between Washington, Georgetown, Alexandria, Westminister and Chestertown will be represented by tent-holders.

The following is a list of the ministers who will officiate: First week, from July 28 to August 3—Revs. T. D. Y. Hunt, T. H. Lewis, R. S. Norris, W. J. Floyd, B. Middleton and T. B. Coulbourn. Second week, from August 3 to August 10—Revs. J. L. Kilgore, B. F. Benson, J. T. Lassel, S. B. Treadway, A. D. Murray and C. H. Littleton. Committee on public service, J. T. Murray, E. J. Drinkwater and J. D. Kiser. Special trains will be run by the Baltimore & Potomac Railroad on Sundays and stoppages by regular trains during the week.

Wesley Grove, the camp-meeting place of the Southern Methodists of this city, Baltimore and the surrounding country, is a beautiful place, situated on a high hill overlooking the Baltimore & Potomac Railroad. The annual meeting will commence on Friday, the 29th instant, and continue thirteen days. More than a hundred tents are already up and others will be erected at the opening of the exercises.

Glandered Horses.

Major King is engaged in an endeavor to impress upon the Commissioners the necessity for greater precaution in cases of glandered horses.

Every detail in connection with the treatment of these animals seems to be faulty. In the first place they are not properly watched for and promptly detected. After detection they are often killed by inexperienced and incapable people in a way that allows blood and poisonous matter to be scattered far and wide, and the carcasses are sometimes carried in open wagons through the streets, imperiling health. Then the bodies, instead of being promptly buried, are, it is asserted, made use of in the manufacture of soap, the use of which is liable to cause disease.

The harm that glandered horses can do is immense, and every measure should be taken to keep them from unnecessary contact with man or beast.

The Will of the Late Anthony Buchly.

This afternoon the will of the late Anthony Buchly was filed for probate. He leaves a life-estate in his property to his wife and also to his son. At the termination of the life-estate to his sister, he bequeaths $10,000 to Columbia Lodge of Odd Fellows, $10,000 to the charity fund of Federal Lodge of Masons, $5,000 and whatever may be due his estate from the Masonic Mutual Relief Association to St. John's Mission Society, the amount due from Odd-Fellows' Relief Association to the charity fund of that Order, and $5,000 to the Washington Orphan Asylum.

Family Excursion.

The steamer John W. Thompson will take excursion parties to Lower Cedar Point, daily, for the rest of the season, beginning on Saturday next. This is one of the most charming resorts on the river, and affords splendid bathing, boating, fishing and crabbing among its attractions. The grounds have been improved and made very convenient, and good meals at low prices can be secured there. Weber's uniform brass and string bands have been engaged for the season on the boat and at the point.

Transfers of Real Estate.

To-day deeds were filed, as follows: Charles H. Ames, trustee, to Martha E. Gilmer, lot 12, square 194, $5,175. John C. Harkness, trustee, to Mary Augusta Gadsby, part of lot 15, square 491, $2,000. Arlington Fire Insurance Company, for the District of Columbia, to Alexander Porter Morse, part of lots 12 and 13, in Davidson's subdivision of square 285. Virginia A. Benter to John and Joseph Patch, lot 39, sub. of square 545, $8. Brainerd H. Warner and wife to John B. Taylor, part of square 156, $2,298. John W. D. Gray and wife to Thomas Keating, part of lot 8, in square 319, $8.

Pure Liquors.

MORE HOPEFUL.

that the flow of pus was not being retarded and that the surgeons are well contented with Prof. Bell's induction balance to give it a trial in case it may yet be discerned that the ball is doing mischief.

No Attempt to Remove the Ball.

There are no indications of such mischief as yet, and it is authoritatively stated that the President is not in any danger in the present condition of the patient, unless such a necessity arises, and that no attempt will be made even to locate the ball at present.

Among those who called at the White House this morning, besides the members of the Cabinet, were ex-Minister Kasson and ex-Senator Howe.

Dr. Hamilton's Hopeful View.

Dr. Hamilton was interviewed in New York yesterday after his return from Washington. The reporter carried to him the news that Dr. Agnew had extracted a small piece of the fractured rib from the wound, and Dr. Hamilton smiled upon receiving this information and said: "This fact has no particular significance. We discovered when we explored the wound on Saturday night that the rib was a good deal broken, and that there were some fragments of splinters which would not be ready for separation from the wall of the wound. The first one of these pieces of the rib has now been extracted, and for several days to come I expect small splinters will be taken out. These operations, instead of creating alarm, ought to give confidence in the treatment. It is not the fact that the chances of his recovery are infinitely greater than the chances of his death. Every one of these splinters which comes from the wound will diminish the irritation and enlarge the place of exit. In this sense only is the fact that fragments of the rib are coming out of the wound of any importance. As to the question of the danger of a recurrence of the abscesses," said Dr. Hamilton, "it is diminishing every day. No new abscess has formed up to the present time, and there are no indications of a new formation. It may, of course, happen that there may be one or two more abscesses on account of the presence of small fragments of the President's clothing, which may have got into the tissues of the body, outside of the direct channels of the wound. The main channel of the wound is in a healthy condition, so that an abscess of this kind is not likely to form. The material is located now outside the direct passage of the ball. It is scarcely likely at this late day that any matter will break through the walls of the wound in either direction. Of course, there is always danger of an abscess of this kind in a gun-shot wound, but the danger is so remote that we feel justified in almost ignoring it. Of course, too, there will be a formation of matter in the immediate vicinity of the ball wherever it is located, and what course this will take it is impossible to predict at present. We have not got to wait, and watch events, but in the meantime, while we are watching, we have every reason to hope for the best."

DISTRICT BOUNDARIES.

The Jurisdiction Over the Waters of the Potomac.

The act of Congress in relation to the location and boundaries of the District of Columbia, which gave to the District of Columbia the portion of territory of the United States ceded by the State of Maryland for a permanent place of government of the United States, including the river Potomac in its course through the District and the islands and shoals in the river, has been interpreted by the Commissioners given to this section in the following in the new District code presented for adoption last winter:

"The District of Columbia comprehends so much of territory as is embraced within the following boundaries: Beginning on the north side of Potomac River, at the Point, being the upper point of Hunting Creek; running thence north 45° east ten miles; thence north 45° west ten miles; thence south 45° west to the Potomac River, and across the same to the west side; thence down the same on the west side to the line of high water to the beginning."

This makes all that portion of Alexandria city and county lying below high water mark a portion of the District of Columbia. Goose Egg Island, lying off Shepherd's, near Alexandria, has always been regarded as a portion of this kind in a gun-shot wound, but the danger is so remote that we feel justified in almost ignoring it. Of course, too, there will be a formation of matter in the immediate vicinity of the ball wherever it is located, and what course this will take it is impossible to predict at present. We have not got to wait, and watch events, but in the meantime, while we are watching, we have every reason to hope for the best."

Latest from the White House.

Favorable Symptoms Continue.

The favorable symptoms of the President continue. So far there have been no indications of another chill or rigor. The President takes short naps, and is given nourishment at intervals of two hours.

Sensational Story Denied.

A sensational story has been sent from this city to the effect that at one time during the President's illness the doctors had all given him up, and that Vice-President Arthur, a justice of the Supreme Court, and all the Cabinet officers had gathered at the White House in expectation of the President's death, for the purpose of swearing in the Vice-President. The report is denied on the best of authority. At no time since the shooting have the physicians given up the President. Drs. Bliss and Reymann have been sanguine from the beginning. They realized the gravity of the case, but have never given way to despair.

2:30 P. M.

Gaining Strength All Day.

At 2:30 p. m. Dr. Bliss stated the President's condition was not changed since 12:30 p. m., and that there were no indications of a further rise to-day. Gen. Swain said at the same hour that the President was doing nicely. He was asked in regard to the President's last statement, and said: "I do not think he was weakened very much by the events of the last three days. He seems almost as strong now as before the relapse, and has been gaining strength all day."

2:45 P. M.

The President continues to improve, having experienced no drawbacks up to this hour.

3 P. M.

No Febrile Rise to-day.

The afternoon febrile rise in the President's condition, which usually sets in about 2 o'clock, has not manifested itself so far. At least Dr. Bliss says so, and he ought to know. He said that the President's condition since their last bulletin, and that no unfavorable symptoms have shown themselves. Gen. Swain was just now questioned about the President's strength, and he gave it as his candid opinion that he was no weaker now than he was before the relapse. According to the latest reports the President is slowly but steadily regaining his strength, which was undoubtedly seriously impaired by the relapse of Saturday.

EMULATING THE WHITES.

A scandal in colored circles. The dull summer season seems to be no barrier to scandals. This time the parties involved are all colored people, and move in the very best colored society. For some time past a young colored man, a messenger in one of the Departments, has had good reasons for suspecting his wife's fidelity, believing that she, in his absence, was in the habit of clandestinely placing a well known colored barber, whose place of business is located on Seventh street, and who glazes the windows of the building, in the hands of the husband left his work at an early hour in the day and resolved to watch the movements of his faithless better-half. He secreted himself near his house, and soon his wife, in company with her tenuous paramour, came sauntering out of the house, and were observed. The pair marched along as happy as any two young lovers could possibly be, while the outraged husband kept a reasonable distance off and followed them to their destination, which was at a house in an alley between Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets, and M street, where they took good care to lock. Very soon the husband came and knocked at the door. He was answered by his wife, who, upon recognizing his voice, screamed out to her lover, "Oh Professor, we are discovered." The "Prof." was equal to the emergency, and he ordered the lockers to be opened, and the door to be unlocked, and there was a scene. It was as much as the officers could do to keep the wife from braining the "Prof." on the spot. The officers were allowed to go their way. The wronged husband will shortly ask for a divorce.

THE COURTS.

EQUITY COURT.—To-day—Taylors, Lay: guardian authorized to make a loan. Y. M. C. A. vs. Joint Stock Co. Y. M. C. A. decree signed. Barker Bros. vs. Schooner E. M. Wright, order of reference to arbitrators. Anderson vs. Anderson, order for appearance of defendant.

Guests at Police Headquarters.

Both of the cells at Police Headquarters were filled to-day. Mr. J. Macnamara, who had just arrived in Washington from Mobile, Ala., finding our city too small and dull for his enthusiastic soul, started to whoop things up under the influence of bad whiskey. Officer Pat. Kearney arrested him at the depot and conveyed him to the headquarters. He with some difficulty was incarcerated, and amused himself by trying vainly to kick down the iron-gated door. He will probably be let out when he has slept it all off.

The other was a little red-headed kid from Baltimore, Eddie Rogers by name. He had run away from home about a week ago and chose Washington as his summer resort, living the life of a hoodlum. He was returned on the 2 o'clock train to his parents.

The Masons and Yorktown.

Grand Master Peyton S. Coles has written from his residence, in Easton, Albemarle County, inviting ex-Senator Withers, Messrs. Isaacs, Scott, and Regan, Mr. F. A. Reed, of Alexandria; Col. Corbin, U. S. Assistant City Postmaster Parker and Col. Boyd, of this city, to attend the Masonic meeting to be held on Friday next to complete the arrangements for the Masonic celebration and the laying of the cornerstone with Masonic ceremonies, at the Yorktown. It is doubtful if Col. Corbin can respond to the invitation in person on account of the President's illness, and by reason of the necessity of his presence at the White House. Col. Parker and Boyd will attend.

Petition for Mandamus Against the District.

Francis Carter, through his counsel, Mr. S. A. Cox, today filed a petition for mandamus against the District Commissioners, the health officer and Felix M. Draugh, the contractor for the removal of offal and night soil from the District, under the contract for the deposit of such garbage on James Creek Road, to compel said defendants to transport the night soil collected by the "Eagle Apparatus," F. Carter, proprietor, which they now refuse to do, and still continue to refuse, as the petition alleges, in the interest of the Odorous Excreting Company as a monopoly.

THE IRISH LAND BILL.

Its Passage Assured—Lord Churchill Will Oppose It and Gladstone Will Reply.

LONDON, July 27.—The Irish land bill having safely passed through the committee of the whole will now come up for the formality of its third reading and final passage by the House of Commons. Its passage is assured, but when a third reading is moved Lord Randolph Churchill, member for Woodstock, intends to make a great speech in denunciation of the whole measure, which he will do by moving the adoption of a resolution, setting forth that in the opinion of the House the original bill was the result of revolutionary agitation, and that it encouraged repudiation of contracts and just liabilities; that it endangered individual liberty, and diminished the security of property; and that while it would not endanger the prosperity of Ireland, it would endanger the unity between Ireland and England and draw in its train many grave evils. There is no probability that the House will adopt Lord Churchill's resolution, and it is doubtful whether any long debate will be had. It is thought, however, that Mr. Gladstone may think it worth while to reply, and to take the opportunity of delivering a final defense of his great measure.

Sent to Death.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 27.—A special engine started last evening to carry Miss Reeve, the station agent and operator at Minnetonka, to her home at Hopkins. A few miles out the engine collided with a train, and Miss Reeve was caught between the boiler heads and scalded to death.

The Coles Murder.

NEW YORK, July 27.—The coroner's jury in the case of George F. Coles, who was shot by Miss Lizzie Coleman in front of Miner's Theatre, to-day found a verdict neither justifying nor accusing the prisoner.

WALKED INTO A TRAP.

A colored man applied at the First Precinct station, Lieut. Gessford's, last night, for lodgings. He said he was a stranger, and had neither money, food, nor refuge. The wanderer was taken in, and upon being searched, three copper pennies were found to be his cash in hand, and a flannel shirt his only change of raiment. The man was asked his name and he reluctantly replied that it was Mathew Taylor, and that he was a laborer from Richmond, Virginia, and had left there in order to find a better chance to work.

The police subsequently ascertained that this was the man who killed Mitchell on the 20th instant and fled from Virginia. The negro denied the charge and pretended ignorance of the occurrence, but when a note or circular from the Richmond authorities was shown him, he was apparently surprised beyond measure that the news of his crime had preceded him in his journey North.

A telegram to the Richmond authorities last night was answered by them this morning, and Taylor will be held until an officer from Richmond comes for him.

ALEXANDRIA AFFAIRS.

The Fish Question Again.

At a meeting of the city council last night, the committee on general laws reported a bill fixing the license on persons selling fish at $5. Judge Stewart stated that he never knew of a city of 14,000 inhabitants which was completely at the mercy of a monopoly of two persons, and that in any other community the people would not stand it, and that the sinking fund commissioners had no authority to make such arrangements as that no others should be allowed to sell fish within the city limits. The idea was simply preposterous. If 1,000 families paid $20 each more by being compelled to buy their fish in the market than they would have to pay if they purchased them elsewhere, they would be taxed $20,000 to keep up the market-house. It would be better not to have a market than that the whole community should suffer by it.

Mr. Moore said that when the whole fish business was in the hands of one man it was reasonable to suppose that he would sell his stale fish first to get them off his hands.

After some amendments, the bill was recommended to the committee on general laws.

The Payne-Barke Shooting.

Mr. L. E. Payne has not yet been released from jail. His attorney, K. Kemper, esq., went to Warrenton this morning with a petition for a writ of habeas corpus from Judge Keith. The cause of Mr. Payne's detention is that Mayor Beckham refused to accept the bond of two thousand dollars offered by Mr. Payne's father. The case was prepared at the instance of Mayor Beckham, with the understanding that it would be accepted when executed, but when the bond was returned, the mayor changed his mind, refused the bond, and decided to hold Mr. Payne. The writ will be heard as soon as it is granted, which it is presumed will be his afternoon or to-morrow morning.
